

APPLICATION CHECKLIST FOR SUBMITTING A FFP APPLICATION

THIS MUST BE COMPLETED AND SUBMITTED WITH FFP APPLICATION

Use this checklist as 1) a guide to help you prepare your application and 2) a final review to be sure you have complied with the application standards.

In completing this application for First Families of Pennsylvania, I _____ have

- Read the FFP Research Guide (RG) and FAQs for documenting my lineage and followed those guidelines to identify acceptable sources.
- Used reliable evidence from primary sources such as government issued vital records (birth, death, marriage), appropriate census records, newspapers contemporary¹ with the event, court records, deeds, probate files, cemetery records, church records, contemporary¹ Bible records, etc.
- Not used county or church histories, printed family histories, pedigree charts, family tree charts, family group sheets, lineage books or other sources unless they are supported by reliable, contemporary, acceptable sources (ex. copies of documents, footnotes or endnotes, bibliography, etc.) or the author had personal knowledge of the events or received the information from living people who had personal knowledge of the events. Best practice is to locate any identified primary sources.
- Documented complete information (birth, death, marriage) as appropriate for at least the first three (most recent) generations. After that I have documented at least a birth date and place or a death date and place for each person in each generation. Estimates based on primary sources are acceptable (Ex. a death date estimated from the probate of a will).
- Supported all dates, places, and events with acceptable, reliable, contemporary¹ evidence.
- Written all dates in this style: 4 Jul 1776. If an exact date is not known, I used one of the following formats: Between 1776-1782; Bef. 1776; Aft. 1776; Abt. 1776.
- Used complete names as they appear in the submitted documents without any additions.
- Referred to all females by their maiden name if known. Otherwise, first name is used if documented.
- Grouped all documents by generation, fastened each generation with a paperclip (NO staples), and included the generation(s) number on each document. My name and address are on the reverse of every piece of paper submitted.
- Not used glued or adhesive labels on any pages, nor have I glued or taped anything to any page of the application or supporting documents.
- Written a complete source citation on the front of each page of each document. If retrieved from an online source, that source is clearly noted. If there is no space on the front, the information can be written on the reverse of the pages.

- Included a title page and/or publication page for all published works.
- Included copies of original documents/photos with all transcriptions and translations.
- Proven each link between generations with reliable, acceptable evidence.
- Identified the documents that show the links between generations and marked the front of each of these documents. Example: "Generations 1-2 link."
- Checked that every copy of each document is legible, and clearly proves what I am saying that it proves.
- Underlined the pertinent portions of the documents in red or placed arrows in the margins to draw attention to them. I have not used highlighters.
- Completed and enclosed the Direct Ancestor Chart and this checklist with my application. I have reviewed the Direct Ancestor Chart to be sure that the sources comply with these guidelines.
- Kept originals or copies of all forms and documents so that I can refer to them if the reviewer has questions or requires more information.

¹Contemporary means that the event was recorded/published at or near the time that the event happened. A marriage record on August 24, 1875 for a marriage on August 15, 1875 is contemporary. A newspaper article in 2024 stating events that happened in 1815 is not contemporary.
