Sarah Maria Cornell. We understand that there is now living in this vicinity, a girl of the name of Sarah Maria Cornell and it is supposed that her name and fame have been blended with the female, who, it is said, was murdered by the Rev. E. K. Aver. That such a girl as Sarah Maria Cornell does now exist, we know to be a fact. --- The editors of the New York Journal of Commerce may be assured of the truth of this information. We know the girl well by reputation, and at one time she was daily in the streets. Providence City Gazette.

We have been informed within a few days past, on good authority, that there is now living in the town of Providence, a female, by the name of Maria Snow Cornell. Of her character we say nothing, further than to state what ought to be known, viz: that there is now no doubt that this is the identical girl spoken of by the witness on the stand in the trial of Avery, a Maria Snow at one place, as Maria Cornell at another, and Maria S. Cornell at a third. Thus has the character of Sarah M. Cornell, the unfortunate deceased, been loaded down with the singularities, the frailties and the crimes of anoth, whose name bore a resemblance to hers.
---- How in a trail conducted with so much respectability and talant on both sides, as was that of Ephraim K. Avery, such difference of names could have been overlooked and the character of Maria Snow Cornell could have been accepted as that of Sarah M. Cornell, we cannot possibly conceive. Sure there must be some mistake in the statement. -----. N. Y. Mercantile Advertiser.

Liverpool, Pa. Oct. 4. ---one of our physicians was called to visit a girl by the name of Martha Charles, aged 14 years, daughter of the late David Charles of Buffalo township,who was confined with the scarlet fever. On the first arrival of the physician, she appeared insensible and for the purpose of restoring animation, he administered a stimulating draught and made an incision in a swelling on the neck. The stimulant soon set the blood in motion, which issued from the incision made in the neck, despite all efforts to check it, until the unfortunate girl expired. It is a little singular, that more than 15 hours after the child had ceased to breathe, the body was found to be in a high state of perspiration, but no signs of remaining life could be discovered.
